really is. The penalties, enforcement, I'm repeating what we said last time on this bill, it's tough to corral the minor who comes in and attempts to purchase. What do you do? Have a clerk run out and chase them down? Out in our area, in the rural areas of Nebraska, you don't have law enforcement 30 seconds away from the store. There might be one person on duty in the county and they might be at the other end of the county. By the time you call law enforcement, the minor is gone. You may have a description of the car or something but very seldom are they going to run this person down. So I believe the amendment accomplishes what we had agreed to. As Senator Janssen said, nobody is real happy with it but it...it gets everybody on the same page here and I intend to support the amendment, and I'm assuming if we do this, that this bill...this problem will be solved. We won't have it back again in another year and, hopefully, it'll be off our plate for awhile. With that, I'll turn the rest of my time back to the Chair. Thank you.

SENATOR CROSBY: Thank you, Senator Baker. Senator Cudaback.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Madam President, members, many times our constituents at home they will say to us, well, just go to Lincoln and do it, or just do it. We all know it doesn't work that way. I think Governor Johanns found that out on his property tax issue here. I was talking with him and he said, hey, I learned quickly that there are 49 state senators. And I was talking with some people the other day about the 49 individuals, and some say that's good and some say that's bad. Well, whatever the case, there are and we all don't think alike. I was just discussing with Senator Landis here. We all don't think alike on this issue and I guess we go from there. This may be a compromise. It is a compromise. It isn't what I necessarily wanted. I wanted Senator Schellpeper's bill. I thought that was a good way to address the situation. I spoke yesterday to a group of students from Gibbon. I asked them the scenario, I told them the issue and what was going on, and then I had a show of hands. They voted 10 to 1 to punish the person who attempts to buy the liquor. Very few stores that I know of, very few people who sell alcohol have a sign in the window: we sell to minors. Very few. They don't entice people to come in that I know of. Maybe I'm wrong. We, and I'll say we, I was a
